

I am very upset to hear that a national association of banks is attempting to use the FCC to weaken Wisconsin's "No Call" list. My wife and I pay our phone bill, this should give us the right to say whether or not we wish to be bothered by telemarketers. I don't care if I had past dealings with a bank or not, that does not give them the right to invade my personal space and I don't want them calling me! If the banks want to pay my phone bill I might be willing to accept their calls.

Please do what is best for the consumer in this case. We have to sign up for this list, and we do it for a reason; we want to have control of our telephone.
